OUR 20th YEAR In Publication

We are printing the picture on the front page of this issue of the "Proceedings", to inform our readers who may not have the opportunity to know what our advanced science is doing.

This 20 story high tracking device is the result of many industrial and engineering firms, combining their individual knowledge to produce this amazing equipment. The dish is 210 feet in diameter. It rotates on the horizontal plane on hydraulic pressure of 2000 pounds to the square inch. This bearing ring, three stories up, supports 24,000 tons of the structure above it in a smooth movement relative to the earths rotation.

This "Mars Station" instrument is one of four located 45 miles north of Barstow, California. The entire Goldstone tracking facility covers 68 square miles. It is operated by the California Institute of Technology Jet Propulsion Laboratory in cooperation with N.A.S.A.

Other buildings contain the vast computer and telemetry banks that operate to record and track everything in space. This "Mars" complex is the control, and reception unit, that pictures of Mars and other satellite transmitters are developed from.

Since this scientific wonder is only 100 miles from our location, we have visited the location twice by invitation.

NEW ROAD

After years of requests, petitions, and waiting, our County is finally paving the 2 miles of dirt road to the "Integratron".

We extend thanks to those officials who are responsible for the decision to do this.

THE "INTEGRATRON"

The work on the "Integratron" is accelerating. One associate has moved here from Los Angeles and is working daily in "putting the pieces together".

We cannot go into detail on this, but we do thank those of you who are making it possible to finish it sooner.

GEORGIA TRIP REPORT

We left Los Angeles on June 6th and arrived in Atlanta, Georgia on the same day. We rented a car in Atlanta and arrived in Lakemont on that evening. I was accompanied on the trip by Dr. Dorris Andre, a research associate and a friend of my family for 20 years.

Our purpose was to confer with T. Galen Hieronymous, and other associates who were to gather at the Lake Rabun retreat of Mahdah Love, another friend and associate of long standing. This five day conference lengthened into 12 days, in order to allow for the arrival of four other associates from 3 other states who came on the next weekend. We were in North and South Carolina and Georgia at intervals over this period.

It became increasingly apparent that the energy we were discussing could be activated for many purposes and that information released to the public must be limited.

Another meeting with these associates is planned for this Fall. This Georgia meeting is only the beginning of the merging of ideas that will accelerate our research for humanity.

PYRAMID PRESERVATION

In the last issue of the "Proceedings" we said that we would publish a drawing of a pyramid to go on the kitchen table in your home. This drawing indicates dimensions that can all be approximate. The only critical dimension is the 52° angle of the sides. The other necessary requirement is that the faces of the four sides must be perpendicular to North, South, East, and West. This can be done with any inexpensive compass providing it is kept away from metal appliances in the kitchen.

The pyramid can be made of any plastic, wood, or metal, and can be made attractive with decorations or paint. Joints can be glued, or taped, and shelves should be made strong enough to support around 25 pounds. Shelves can be made of $\frac{1}{2}$ " plywood, or a similar material. Corner posts can be approximately $1\frac{1}{2}$ " square.

A triangular hole cut in two sides should be about 10" on each side. This permits reaching into items on the box described next.

A box can be set loosely on the top shelf that supports the pyramid. Four dowels glued into the corners of the top shelf make it possible to remove the pyramid from the shelf rack without requiring it to be reoriented with a compass.

The pyramid energy will be strongest on the box inside and diminish down through the lower shelves. The pyramid will not keep things cold as in refrigeration, but will preserve things longer, in many cases without spoiling.

Items placed on top of the box will dehydrate totally in 28 days and may be kept indefinitely then in jars, or cans, outside of the pyramid on other shelves.

The first shelf directly below the pyramid will keep milk, eggs, butter, or like products for a longer period than refrigeration will.

The second shelf down is ideal for vegetables, bread, or opened canned goods, or left-overs. The kitchen table top below the second shelf will keep canned goods, or jar items that have been opened and not all used at one time. If the pyramid is used on top of a cabinet containing shelves, it won't be necessary to build the shelf rack.

Ancient pyramid information, from Egypt, indicates that they used meat mummified (dried) in the pyramid, which would be on top of the box, for healing internal disorders and broken bones. The mummified meat was ground into a powder and assimilated by putting it in water, or milk. No research has been conducted by us on this, and we do not prescribe it for those who have physical problems. It would be interesting however to know if it works.

Many new things are being discovered about this pyramid energy in private research. We will be interested to hear from any of our readers who try new things in this pyramid preserver.

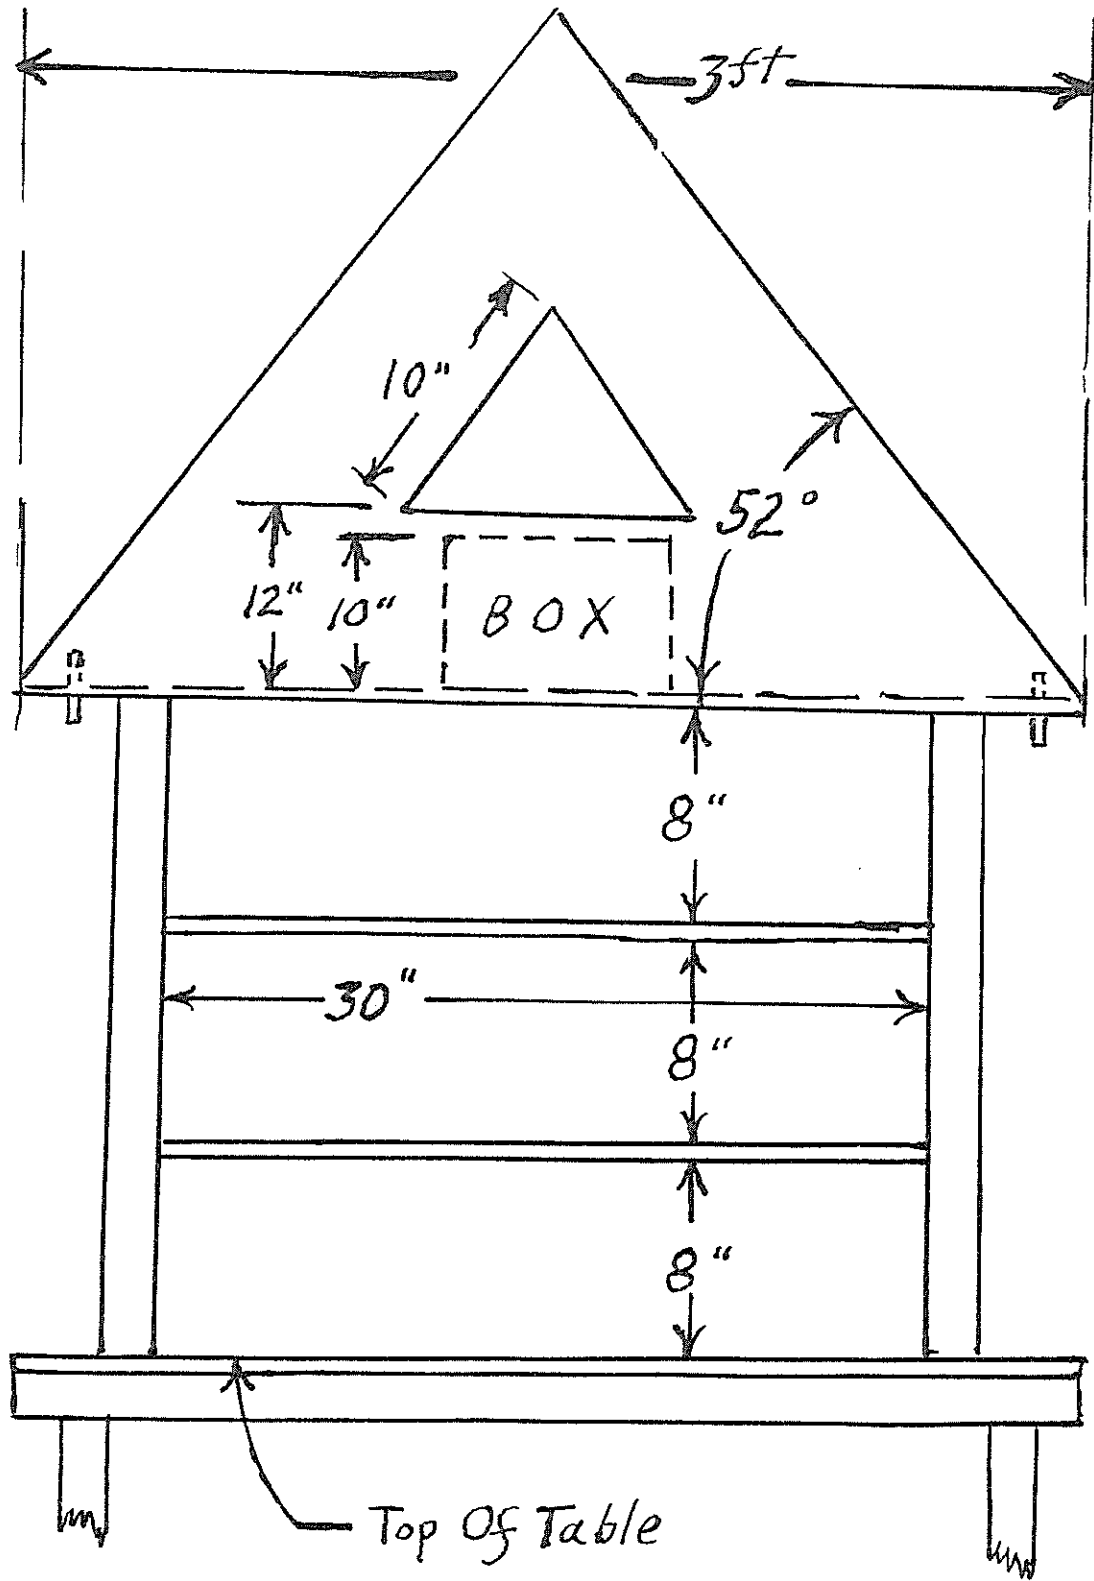

A Canadian associate, Mary R. Richards, writes, "I used your idea about pyramid energy, placed a simple cardboard pyramid over a piece of butter and left on my counter, with a like slice of butter in an open dish beside it - left them overnite. In the a.m. the uncovered dish had oily soft butter, the one under the pyramid was firm, almost as hard as the butter in the fridge."

PYRAMID DANGERS

Meditation, or prolonged time spent under a pyramid form will produce headaches and dehydration of the body.

"PROCEEDINGS" OUT IN FRONT AGAIN

In the "Proceedings" of August-September-October, 1966, on page 7 we printed data on how to make a "free energy" motor. This was in an article on the "Biefeld-Brown" effect.

In the second paragraph on page seven, we printed: "A 'free energy' motor can be made with permanent magnets, using a three gear planetary system between the rotor and stator, with an even number of magnets on the rotor and an uneven number of magnets on the stator. The three gears have three magnets rotating to time attraction and repulsion between the rotor and stator magnets polarity-wise."

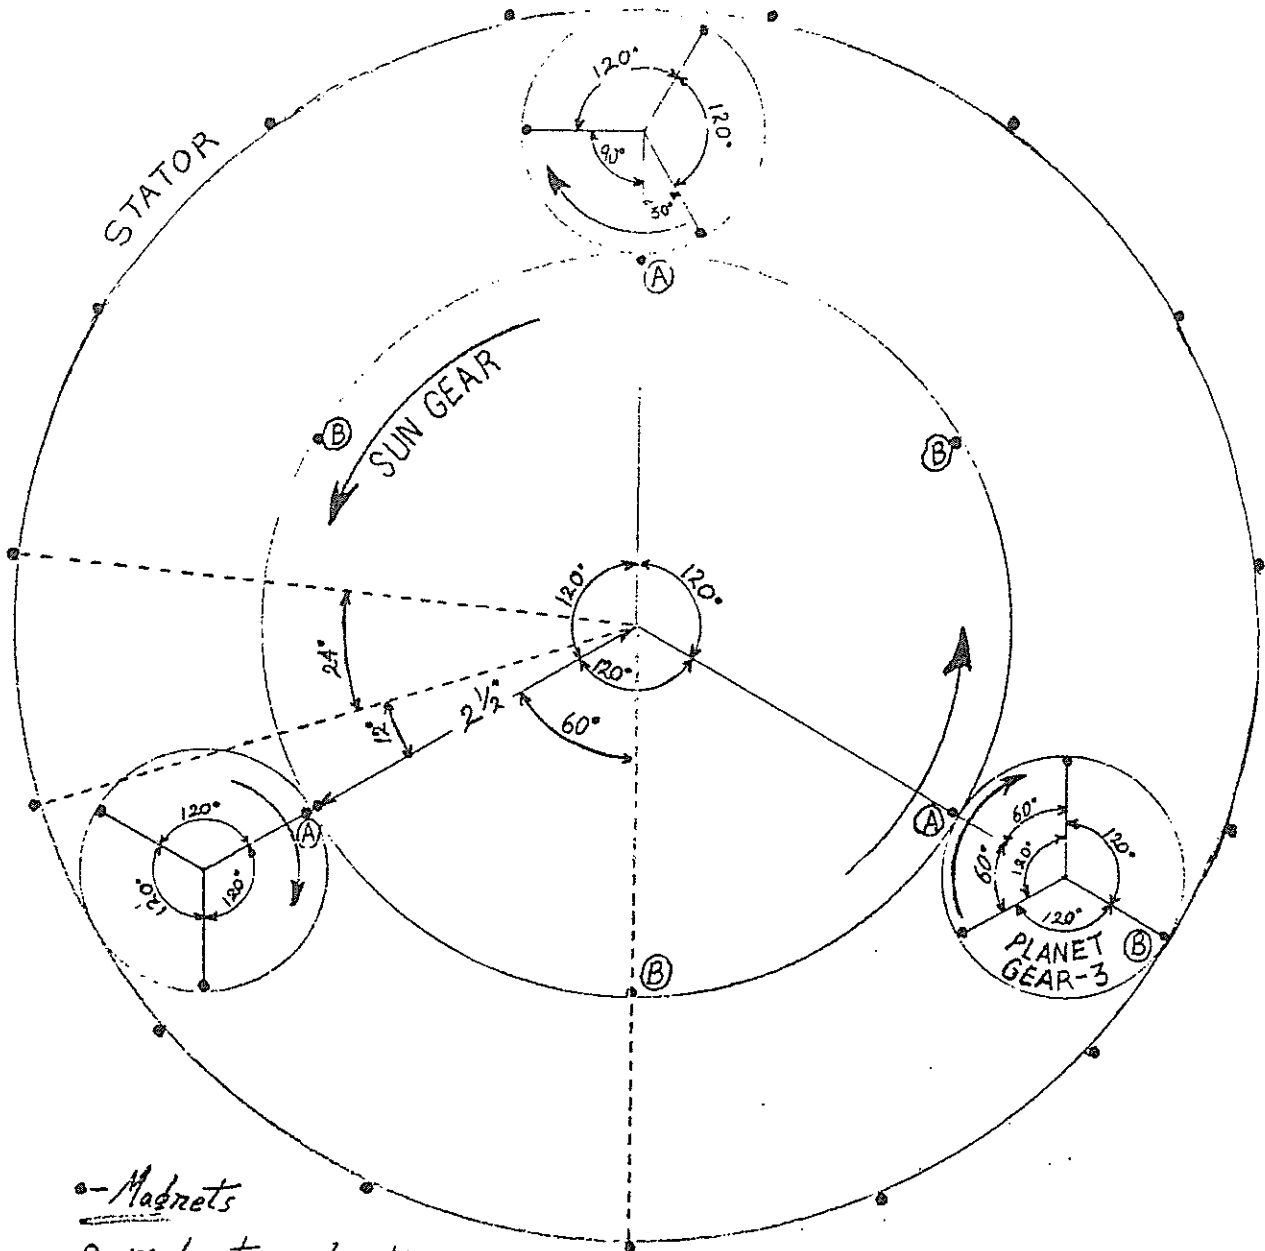

Now a friend has sent us a drawing of a "Free Energy Machine" worked out exactly to the method we described. This drawing carries a  symbol which we believe to be the Westinghouse copyright.

We are reprinting the drawing which is dated eight months later than our "Proceedings" of 1966 that went to thousands of our readers around the world.

We are happy to see that someone, takes our advanced ideas in the "Proceedings" and makes use of them. We do not have time to develop, or produce, the many things we print. This principle was worked out and does run. We did this in 1964. A computer analysis of the function shows an energy output with no fuel, or batteries.

Anyone is free to use the material we print in the "Proceedings", whether they be large companies, or individuals. Our efforts are to make things better for humanity by revealing beneficent things, not looking for credit, or hiding advanced knowledge.

From 1967 (the date of the drawing) until 1974 (seven years) we still haven't seen the application of any free-energy devices that would hurt the status-quo economy.

VON DANIKEN AND VAN TASSEL

Erich Von Daniken has blown Darwin and the theory of evolution clear out of the window. His books, "Chariots Of The Gods", "Gods From Outer Space", and "The Gold Of The Gods", have presented irrefutable evidence in ancient artifacts, around the world, that the human species did not come up from the apes.

George W. Van Tassel, in his book, "Into This World And Out Again", printed in 1956, stated the same factual data using the Bible as the authoritative source. Here are some excerpts from this book:

" 'In the beginning God (The Creative Spirit) created the heaven and the earth.' (Gen. 1:1). This creation was a part of the continuously evolving creation throughout the Universe. Each instant that passes new things are being made, new phases of life unfold to live in ever progressing cycles of rebirth.

As related above, God made heaven before the earth. In these heavens of the sky He had already created man in the infinite image of God.

Man was created to live in space, even as fish live in the ocean. On many planets of many other solar systems, and on other planets in this solar system, man was developed through hundreds of thousands of years, long before the Earth was habitable.

Man was created (Gen. 1:27), he did not evolve from the lower animals.

However, he was not created on the Earth. Man was created to serve as the instruments of God's doing. You know from our records Abon, that our exploration through various expanses of space has proven that wherever we have gone we have found more of the species of man. Anyone who contends that the Earth is the only planet occupied by the form of man, does not accept God in His infinite completeness. Their narrow minds have placed a limit on His ability to perform His creations, to one planet.

We of the Adamic race know that Adam was not a single man. This is confirmed in Gen. 1:27 where the race of man in the original creation is described as 'male and female'.

In Gen. 1:28 the scripture relates how 'God blessed them'. This is plural, not him, but them. 'And God said unto them, (the Adamic race, both male and female) be fruitful, and multiply.' This is all before Eve is ever mentioned and before God had finished His work.

So the Adamic race is now established on Earth because we originally colonized it.

Then God finished His work of creation in regard to man. He had also finished the creation of the heavens and the earth and all the host of them. (Gen. 2:1). This means all the living creatures that occupy the many planets and the vast heavens.

So God 'ended His work' and rested (Gen.2:2-3), and still no mention of Eve! Can this be? Yes, the Christian's Bible is accurate on God's beginning of His creations.

Next in the Bible comes the summary of the creation. This is where the people of Earth are led into confusion. This summary was an added interpretation by a 'brain'.

For the first time God is left out of the story and a 'Lord God' (Heb. - Jehovah) is introduced into the record. This was one of our people of the Adamic race living in space, who was landed by our spacecraft with the rest of the original colony.

The men of the colony did not bring their women with them. This is one of the prime reasons why we are so interested now in the people of the planet Earth.

The Lord God brings Eve into the picture - not the Creator. The Lord God said that the Adamic man was lonesome. (Gen. 2:18). Then the Lord God created Eve 'out of a rib' after one of the men fell into a deep sleep. (Gen. 2:21-22).

The Creator brings about re-creation of people by birth everywhere in the Universe, not by making women out of ribs. Didn't God already create male and female in Gen. 1:27?

Our people from space have been watching the people of Earth for thousands of years. One of their theorists (Darwin) tried to connect humans with the lower animals by the theory of evolution. The connection was not by evolution from, it was by breeding with. That is why the evolutionists have never found the 'missing link'."

Jesus was born here on the earth to demonstrate before and afterlife as an eternal continuity. As related by the space people, in Van Tassel's book:

" 'For I know whence I came, and whither I go.' (John 8:14).

'I am from above; ye are of this world; I am not of this world.' (John 8:23).

Tell me more of this unusual planet where people struggle to live, requested Abon.

Many times we have brought our teachers through the process of normal birth on the Earth; to try to teach the humans how to live. Our last attempt was through one they call Jesus.

The only records available to their common people are misinterpreted, in most cases, by those who have not understood the laws of nature. Translation, and the great ignorance among many of the preachers of their Bible, has led many of the multitudes into confusion.

In their Bible in Mat. 1:1-17, the genealogy of Joseph is given. Further it explains in Mat. 1:16 that Joseph was the husband of Mary, and by implication leads them to believe that he was the father of Jesus.

If the Earth people would read carefully Mat. 1:18-25, it would be plain that Joseph became the husband of Mary 'before they came together', and 'after she was found with child'. In Mat. 1:25, it is made clear that Joseph 'knew her not'.

It is evident that Joseph was a foster father to Jesus. There was no blood of Joseph in Jesus.

Mary is one of the Adamic race of our people, as you know, Abon; one of the 'male and female' of the race of man that God created before 'He ended His work'. (Gen. 2:2). This was before the cross-breeding of the race of Adam and the race of Eve took place.

Mary volunteered for the assignment of bringing through birth - to the Earth - a true son of our Adamic race. Jesus also accepted the assignment, knowing beforehand what his earthly birth would entail. Mary became pregnant and was landed on the Earth by one of our ships.

The 'three wise men' were also our Adamic people. They 'came from the East', having already been made aware by telethought, that a creation of Man was to be brought forth on the Earth.

The three wise men followed our craft, which the Earth people called 'the star of Bethlehem' (Mat. 2:9), until it hovered over the inn where Jesus was being born. The luminous force field set up by the craft looked like a star to the Earthlings.

Our people 'stood by' at the birth. The ones aboard the craft were in telepathic communication, not only with Mary, but also with the three wise men.

Jesus was on the Earth as an example of the ways by which our people live. He tried to arouse the reality of the Earthlings to an understanding that they were living in an extremely dense reflection of their true selves. He demonstrated the resurrection, and taught that the people must qualify by action, and not by words alone. Belief is taught by their churches as a method of being saved. Jesus taught them that belief was an empty illusion unless it was demonstrated by an act of faith. This is recorded in their Bible, (Mat. 4:10), 'Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve.' He didn't say believe in, he said serve. Service is an act of doing, not a belief in something unseen and unknown.

'I have given them Thy Word: and the world hath hated them, because they are not of the world, even as I am not of the world.' (John 17:14).

We have landed many of our people on the Earth in the last hundred years. This is verified to the people of Earth by the fact that their sciences have advanced faster in the last seventy-five years than they have in the last several thousand years. Most of them we have placed in the three strategic branches of their industries; transportation, communication, and publication.

We have done this in order to control the Earth people, in event that we should be forced by their actions to make a hasty landing.

As all of our methods are subtle, we have already educated their younger generation through comic books, television, and the radio. Our people have advanced the minds of the youngsters to the point where they no longer desire to be cowboys - they want to be spacemen.. Many of their parents who have open minds are also receptive. In event that we have to make a sudden landing, the children will rush to greet us - setting an example for the adults. Their Bible tells them of this, 'a child shall lead them'.

'Verily, verily, I say unto you, The hour is coming, and now is, when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God: and they that hear shall live.'

Of course we know dead bodies cannot hear. So what is implied here where it states, 'the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God'?

You must remember that the man Jesus said many times, 'It is not I who speak but the Father who speaks through me.' Of course the spirit of God is speaking from realms of perfection, from a universal point of view, not from the surface of the Earth.

The first birth, on this planet, is through the parent instruments of your conception.

The second birth is when you leave this limited condition on Earth, and are reborn into your true state.

Death is the confinement of and to this planet's surface; not the condition of transition that brings the second birth.

In the mobile coffin of the physical body, you can hear voices and receive thoughts that are not your own.

You are reflecting the real everlasting you in this level. You can't die here: you are already dead! You died before in order to get here.

Jesus said, 'For I came down from heaven, not to do mine own will, but the will of him that sent me'. He didn't say up, he said down.

People talk of going down to hell. That is because the consciousness remembers having been up before.

There is no hell more confining, or limiting, than the dense physical body here. Everyone makes their own hell wherever they are. The footnote, number 2, at the bottom of page 1342, in the Scofield Bible says, 'In the sense of the present world system the ethically bad sense of the word, refers to the 'order', 'arrangement', under which Satan has organized the world of unbelieving mankind upon his cosmic principles of force, greed, selfishness, ambition, and pleasure. The world system is imposing and powerful with armies and fleets; is often outwardly religious, scientific, cultured, and elegant; but, seething with national and commercial rivalries and ambitions, is upheld in any real crisis only by armed force, and is dominated by Satanic principles.'

Yes; it ways this in the Bible. It isn't in the Holy script, but it is just as true!

Jesus came down to demonstrate the principles by which you must live in order to go up. Yes, humanity on this planet are 'The dead who shall hear', if they but listen."

Von Däniken, in his books, offers ancient records, and artifacts, that verify the Biblical message.

What the promoters of modern concepts are trying to do is to twist and coerce everyones thinking into a materialistic way of living.

" Von Daniken and I are both Dutch. We both thrive, and write, on remembrances from the ancient experiences; and neither one of us believe we are a product of evolution, but rather descendants of higher creations.

(Editors note: This information was advanced to us by two people from space, called Bor and Abon by a form of telepathy that is relayed through the inner ear to the brain. The book referred to in this article, "Into This World And Out Again" is out of print and is not available.)
