OUR 21st YEAR In Publication

WORLD POWER GRID

Since Nikola Tesla's early experiments with extracting energy from the earth, there have been a number of attempts to produce electrical power from this giant solar electron.

The fact that the Sun causes variations in the fluctuation of the earth's energy, due to sunspots and flareups in the Sun, is well established.

Government appropriation of billions of dollars, to obtain energy from the Sun's radiations, is only a "battery charger effect" to another "Rube Goldberg" method of indirect energy.

Alfred Hubbard obtained energy directly from the earth, and demonstrated that it could be transmitted, as was written about in the December 17th, 1919 Seattle Post Intelligencer newspaper. The pictures in the paper showed the Hubbard device lighting a 200 watt light bulb.

Hubbard, then only 19 years old, powered an 18 foot boat around Portage Bay, near Seattle. Operating a 35 horsepower electric motor, with no batteries in the boat, he cruised around for hours on the energy produced from his device.

One of our associates, Art Aho, learned considerably about Hubbards device from a man that worked with Hubbard at the time. Art was also working with Lester Hendershot when he was lighting a 100 watt bulb from a similar "basket weave" coil.

Both Hubbard, and Hendershot used what was called, in old Chinese records, the "Cosmic Flower", which they claimed was "the source of all power". Both principles employed a pulse resonance with the earth's grid system and created a secondary induction between the two windings on the coils. Hubbard's coils were round, in both the primary and the secondary; and Hendershot used a round configuration in the primary with a diamond shaped secondary as the result of the "basket" weave in the winding.

Hubbards transmitter was in exact resonance with the transducer he had aboard the boat. He collected the energy in his transformer by running wires 1200 feet in north, south, east and west directions underground, from the center. The outer end of the wires attached to hollow tubes 18" long that had mercury in them. The wires passed through the earths energy grid wave. The mercury apparently created a choke, or pulse block, that forced the current to go to the central primary circuit.

It is evident that even then, in 1919, "the powers that be" were not going to allow "free energy" to come into use.

In the magazine "Electrical Experimenter" of February, 1919, in an article titled "Famous Scientific Illusions", written by Nikola Tesla, he says regarding his transmission of power; "Some experts, whom I have credited with better knowledge, have for years contended that my proposals to transmit power without wires are sheer nonsense but I note that they are growing more cautious every day. The latest objection to my system is found in the cheapness of gasoline. These men labor under the impression that the energy flows in all directions and that, therefore, only a minute amount can be recovered in any individual receiver. But this is far from being so. The power is conveyed in only one direction, from the transmitter to the receiver, and none of it is lost anywhere. It is perfectly practicable to recover at any point of the globe energy enough for driving an airplane, or a pleasure boat or for lighting a dwelling. I am especially sanguine in regard to the lighting of isolated places and believe that a more economical and convenient method can hardly be devised. The future will show whether my foresight is as accurate now as it has proved heretofore".

Here in 1919 you see the greatest genius, Nikola Tesla, saying it can be done and in Seattle unknown to Tesla, Hubbard was transmitting energy to drive a pleasure boat. Tesla's reference to "the cheapness of gasoline" being the opposition to his principles of clean power is possibly why after Tesla died, his giant energy transmission tower on Long Island was torn down and his energy transmission station at Colorado Springs was obliterated. Today Ed Gray is running into the same opposition in getting his magnetic motor into production motor cars.

Hugo Gernsback, President of the Experimenter Publishing Co., in which Tesla's articles were printed, says in the same issue; "If we were sending pure Hertzian waves, why do we connect one wire at both sending and receiving stations to the ground? Hertz never dreamt of such a thing. If you are still unconvinced that the earth is the chief medium of transmission, disconnect your ground wires entirely and try to send and receive. Now you may work with Hertz waves but the distances you can bridge will be pitifully small."

One can check the earths energy, not only as a conductor, but as an amplifier by putting a ground wire on their radio to the chassis.

A book, published in the German language, in Innsbruck, Austria in 1952, explains the findings of outstanding researchers into the earths power grid system. The title of this book is "The World of the Secret Forces". In German, "Die Welt Der Geheimen Machte".

The men involved are Dr. Willi Schlosser, Prof. Hellmut Wolff, Hans-Wilhelm Smolik, Heinrich Reblitz, Theodor Weimann, Herbert A. Lohlein, Ferdinand Reich, Univ. Prof. Dr. Hubert J. Urban, Dir. Prof. Dr. K. Saller, Prof. Dr. Georg Anschutz, Prof. Dr. Theol and Adolf Koberle. Quite an impressive group of qualified professional people, to agree, and be involved in one book. They established that the earth is covered on the surface by a grid system of positive and negative poles in a checkerboard pattern.

Excerpts from the book are as follows:

"Each of the squares has a center pole surrounded by 8 smaller poles. (Here again is the Chinese Cosmic Flower, the Hubbard Coils, the Tesla System of extracting energy from the earth. Ed.)

These squares vary in size from the equator, getting smaller in the direction of the earths poles. The main pole concentrates energy. At North Latitude 48° (The latitude where these men conducted their research. Ed.) the center pole has a diameter of 2.45 meters. The 8 smaller poles have a diameter of 60 c.m. Four of the 8 outer poles (alternately) send energy up toward the sky. The other four send energy outward horizontally to North, South, East and West.

The squares (48° N. Latitude) are 15.90 meters diagonally from center to center poles.

$$\frac{N}{\sinus} 45^\circ = \frac{15.9}{0.707} = 22.50 \text{ meters}$$

A border field is mingled together in the Northwest and Southeast directions and in the Southwest and Northeast directions. These 4 corners of the squares seem to connect the fields of 2 of the negative smaller poles and two of the positive smaller poles.

At these points any person (or body) will receive a mixture of negative and positive energies.

The side length measurements at the equator are 32 meters long. It was found out that the earth between its North and South Poles was a "stick" magnet. On this magnetic field there are electric currents perpendicular to the "stick" magnet.

Strange to say that the Cheops pyramid on the 30° North latitude, stands on a diagonal measurement of the pole field of 30 meters on each side of the squares.

The main center poles of each positive square shows a direction of energy from above to below the earths surface. There a vortex is created with a pulse like the hand of a clock. The negative poles are vice versa.

Dr. Rohrachner, of the University of Vienna made a very sensitive electro-magnetic tuning fork (The Hendershot device also has a magnetic tuning fork. Ed.) that showed from 7 to 18 movements per second. Prof. Dr. Regelsberger made an electrometer which showed electric impulses of 10 millionth of an amp.

Dr. Muller, from Zurich, Switzerland, measured the electric field on the human body. The body "aura" will change if you move into a different location.

This means the magnetic or electric field of the earth is different.

The 'dowsing rod' can locate the center of these positive and negative poles. These measurements should be made with different lengths of 'dowsing rods'. The length gives different wave length readings.

The point you find with the rod is a knot of a free standing wave. (We call this energy point a 'time zone' or 'this other energy'. It is not magnetic, or electric. Hieronymous calls it 'Eloptic Energy'. Ed.)

The 'aura' of the human body will be charged on all positive polarity pole centers and it will discharge the human 'aura' on all negative poles until no aura is registered. This is how one can register whether the poles are positive, or negative.

These experiments are physiologically and psychologically of the greatest importance to health. Whoever goes into the secret of the earths ray powers will know the wheel of destiny.

These powers are free, not the power from our power plants. These in and out powers have to do with the human organism. The trouble zones and health zones have to do with the movement of the planets and stars. In the micro-cosmos it (the earth) is the electron that is in the command of our creator. (What a statement to come from these distinguished men. Ed.)

This is the pattern of the secret of creation and this is why the Chinese speak of the secret of the golden blossom.

It is well known that there are rows of cancer houses in certain towns and most of these inhabitants are dying of this terrible sickness. The dowsers have proven that the bedrooms of cancer patients are on the grid crossings of the trouble zones.

Waldemar V. Jankowsky wrote about the cancer problem and said the light quantum and the Pi-electron are the cause. The dowers proved these trouble zones are in the positive fields. Frh. V. Pohl wrote; 'earth beams are sickness excitors. We could find the positive fields by experiments'.

The places of the negative polar fields shows entirely different effects on the human organism. Now here is an entirely new field for searching doctors who are interested in the world of fine beams. Through this effect the life span of the human can be changed." (This verifies what we are trying to do with the "Integratron" machine. Ed.)

Captain Bruce Cathie's two books "Harmonic 33" and "Harmonic 695" seem to follow a pattern "township" grid composed of many of the smaller grids like "sections".

It is strange that the German material and Cathie's grids coincide on the great pyramid, and other points on the earth's surface. These researches conducted years apart and on opposite sides of the globe tend to verify each other.

The fact that microwave transmissions, and receptions, are being carried on through the earth's surface by coordinating resonance at different points, is proof that secret scientific people are already aware of the great potentials of the grid system for power, navigation, and antigravity directional control.

Baxter's research with plants; the Hieronymous research with insects; research into bio-transducers by L. George Laurence; Kirlian photography; acupuncture, and numerous other aspects are verifying each other.

In the "Proceedings" of November 1953, on page five we explained the "earth's force field". Four years later science verified this and called it the "Van Allen Radiation Belt". In the 1953 article we printed: "this ring maintains balanced interchange of power through the crust and atmosphere of this planet."

In the September-October 1965 issue of the "Proceedings", on page 4, we wrote up the earth forces in an article titled, "This Amazing Armature". In the 1965 article we said, "There are other fields in the earth's bulk that are not measurable with a magnetic instrument such as a compass. These fields, and currents, are the carriers and distributors of what we call 'life force'. This 'life force' is only measurable and detectable through 'living' instruments and it is also subject to thought."

If people knew they were living in a positive square on the earth they would move, or be subject to the physical ailments caused by it.

This article could go on indefinitely, because there is not enough research going on for the benefit of people, and too much going on for their detriment.

Mrs. Ford, the Presidents wife, and Mrs. Rockefeller, having to suffer the conditions of breast cancer surgery, is proof that the detrimental forces can affect people in the highest positions in life.

It looks like the government would appropriate more money to study these forces and subsidize those people who are already involved in the research into this "life force".

(Please do not write to us for any of the books mentioned in this article. Captain Bruce Cathies books are published by A.H. & A.W. Reed, 182 Wakefield St., Wellington, New Zealand.)

ANNIVERSARY

This issue of the "Proceedings" starts the 21st year of its publication. The back issues, if stacked up, represent the equivalent of a book 18 inches thick.

U.F.O.'S YET

U.F.O. landings, sightings, and contacts continue to be the subject of many new books, national weekly newspapers, and television shows.

After 20 years of "hush-hush" on the part of the government, it finally looks like the new policy is to "leak" certain information of an official nature to the public through television network specials.

Officials can no longer keep the public in the dark on this subject, and since several foreign governments are letting their people know what is going on, the United States must change its policy, or get caught in the near future in another "communications gap".

There will still be no official statement from authority, but they are cooperating, with documented data, to gradually make the public aware.

The government investigating agencies had the answers and knew the score on U.F.O.'s before the "hush-hush" policy started in 1954. They were Identified Foreign Objects to the involved officials since 1947.

"Johnny come lately" authors continue to write, "maybe we can find out how they operate; in the future we may discover anti-gravity, etc.". The Air Force has known these answers since they dismantled, and copied, the craft that was impounded near Aztec, New Mexico. Frank Scully wrote a book about this event in 1952 titled, "Behind The Flying Saucers". More than 20 years ago.

In 1953, an Air Force Captain gave a lecture to Reserve Air Force Officers in an American Legion Hall in Hollywood, California. He was the officer in charge of removing 16 bodies from a 99 foot diameter saucer. He gave this talk to the Reserve Officers at the request of his superior officers. The talk was attended by Gene Dorsey and Frank Scully. After the lecture Frank Scully invited this Captain to explain more in detail, at his home in the Hollywood Hills the following night. The meeting in Scully's home was attended by George Smith, Gene Dorsey,

Mr. & Mrs. Harry Meyers, Frank Scully, Mr. & Mrs. George Van Tassel, the Scully children and Alice Scully, Franks wife.

At this meeting the Air Force Captain said his superior had suggested that he not go to Scully's home, and not to discuss this event, because the people who would be there were "only civilians". The Captain did not go into details, at Scully's home, but admitted everything he had said at the Legion Hall the night before was true. (I am not using this Air Force Captains name, because I wouldn't do so without his permission. Ed.)

The 16 bodies aboard the craft were charred externally and were given post mortem examinations by top surgeons and pathologists under Air Force directions. Several months later two of the brain surgeons came to Giant Rock Airport and my wife Eva, and I, talked with them for several hours. These two top civilian brain surgeons said their analysis of the 16 brains indicated that the youngest of the bodies was around 350 years old and the oldest was about 700 years old. This was determined by the brain tissue scale of earth people from a new-born baby to a person 65 years of age. The brain accumulates denser tissue with ageing.

These brain surgeons reported that the oral surgeons were dumbfounded by the fact that they had examined 16 sets of adult teeth with no evidence of decay, or repair. This Aztec, New Mexico spaceship incident is one of the many cases withheld from the public. Remember there were no security orders on U.F.O.s until 1954!

An Air Force Major, stationed at George Air Force Base, at Adelanto, California, spent many weekends with us at Giant Rock Airport discussing his investigations. He was officially in charge of U.F.O. investigations in Southern California. This was in 1953.

The most interesting case he told us about was the case of an Air Force jet which had radioed George Air Force Base to give his position East of San Jacinto Mountain, near Palm Springs, California. His destination was George Air Force Base. Right after the Base Tower had acknowledged his position, the jet pilot radioed right back again and reported that there was a round object that had just come up to him and was flying along beside him.

The George Air Force Base tower replied and told him to maintain his course to the Base. Then the Tower phoned my friend, the Major, and hurried preparations were made to photograph the jet, and object, when it passed over George Air Force Base. This preparation stopped when the jet pilot radioed again and reported "this thing just crashed into the ground near San Jacinto Mountain". The tower radioed back to the pilot, and told him to fly in orbit around the place where the object crashed.

Hurriedly, the Major, and several other Air Force personal, climbed into a helicopter and headed for Mt. San Jacinto. They spotted the jet circling and went in low to the center of the jets orbit. On the ground they located the mysterious object and landed the helicopter in a clearing about 200 feet from it. The Major said they walked slowly toward it and when they were about 25 feet from it they stopped in awe because they couldn't figure out what was happening. The Major said the object was apparently remote controlled, and was in the process of some automatically activated "self destruct" procedure. He said the object had a pulsing bright light in the middle of an ovoid mass, of what looked like black tar about 2 feet thick and about 12 feet in diameter. The entire black mass was quivering like jelly, shaking and getting smaller by the minute. The Major said in a short time the black blob had diminished until there was nothing left and the bright pulsing light just vanished. There wasn't an iota of anything left on the ground where the object had been. They took samples of the ground where the object had sat and other samples of the earth a hundred feet away, to take back for analysis. We never heard what the results were, because after President Eisenhowers secret trip to Edwards Air Force Base in 1954, the Major stopped coming to see us. This was the beginning of security in 1954.

We recently were visited by Ralph and Judy Blum, authors of the new paperback book by Bantam, titled "Beyond Earth". This book is well done.

We were surprized to find in Chapter 10, almost identical information to that given to us in 1953. The book relates a contact with a U.F.O. in 1967 by Patrolman Herbert Schirmer on Highway 63 near Ashland, Nebraska. We quote excerpts from Patrolman Schirmer's account, which were identical to that given to us in our contact:

"He's asking me if I would like to see how some of their things work". "Through my mind somehow he is telling me things - he is telling me this is an observation craft with a crew of four men". "He is saying they study our languages on earth through some sort of a machine". (I was told this device is called an adiphon. Ed.) "My mind tells me that they have computers to speak any language somehow wherever they may land". "Now they are telling me their ships have been knocked out of the air by radar --- before they hit the ground the mother ship destroys them by a built-in mechanism that blows them up and burns them up". "When they land, an invisible force field is thrown around the ship in a circular pattern. He said that the electromagnetic field is a defense mechanism". "The public should consider in their minds that they should have no fear of these beings because they are not hostile".

The Schirmer - Van Tassel contacts are over a thousand miles and 14 years apart. We have told, for over 20 years, how the space people have a device that can transmit electrically through a beam to the inner ear and to our brain and we register this as words. They told us this was called a "transitor beam".

The greatest event in our modern history is taking place yet being withheld, by a minority decision, from the multitude of people.

Some authors are saying, "in the future maybe we will make contact with other intelligent people in space and this will be the greatest event in history". They don't seem to grasp that this has already happened many hundreds of times in the last 20 years, to say nothing of thousands of years before!

These people from space are intelligent far beyond our ability to realize. They do not want to associate with us on an interplanetary basis when they can see the downfall of a civilization as a result of greed, instead of planning "a heaven on earth" which we are capable of doing now.

Apparently the military policy is to confound the public with confused reports, like the "Condon Report", in order to use the true space visitations to cover up the fact that advanced research branches of the military have been flying electro-static magnetic propulsion ships since the middle 1950s.

Anti-gravity and electro-static-magnetic propulsion on a wholesale basis would wreck our economic structure. The credit system, on an individual and international scale, has caused multiple devaluations and inflations beyond the point of no return. It is time for a world-wide system of values based on service instead of profit.

The space people have no money system, no marriage, no divorce, no churches, no politics. There are no problems as a result of these things! They look upon us and wonder how long we are going to be dumb animals instead of spiritual creative beings.

Their motto is the "Golden Rule". Their constitution is the "Ten Commandments". With these rules a society doesn't need thousands of laws.

Marriage is a spiritual union, not a legal one to be undone by another piece of paper. Exchange is a matter of values of equality, not to buy "time" for profit. Religion is an act of living rightly and treating others as you want to be treated, not mere mouthing of words in buildings with steeples.

Authority should be established by drafting the most qualified people to serve all people, not a selection for power, or profit, or party.

Intelligent beings have been a product of creation in space for millenniums. People on the earth are not supposed to be evolving up from apes to get higher intelligence in a materialistic world. They are supposed to be finding out things of a spiritual nature so they can get back to the higher estate of man that they fell from.

The earth is loaded with "fallen angels", and a few who were "dumb" enough to volunteer to come here to raise the standard up.

The U.F.O.s will continue to watch us. Will they see some evidence of a revival of the innerself in command here? And when?

The next few years will determine the destiny of we mortals confined on this ball of rock in space.

THE "INTEGRATRON"

Progress continues as we gain daily on this giant machine. New theories are evolving that may make it possible to do other amazing things besides it's original purpose of regeneration. As any of these other possibilities are proven, our supporters will be informed.

Thanks are extended again to those of you who make this progress possible.
